News for Farmers

Farm Bureau Official Information

HERE'S ONE FARMER WHO TOOK A CHANCE WINNING ON CATTLE

EXPERIENCE OF C. E. MULKS, LIMA TOWN-SHIP, TOLD.

The average banker would throw up his hands in hopeless despair if a tenant farmer came to him now, without much security, and asked to borrow $10,000 to purchase a herd of cattle. It would be considered poor business and there would be no question but what the loan applicant would be turned down.

Such a loan for a herd of cattle would be a banker's dream. It is now turned out in one instance.

In 1913 C. E. Mulks owned a few head of cattle in Iowa where he was a tenant farmer. He had practically no means of getting money. He took a long chance and borrowed $10,000 to buy a registered Holstein bull backed with a production record.

He got the money and bought the famous King Korydake Pontiac Lass, one of the first sires from 40 pound butter fat gain. He was a good Rock county land. In his big, spacious and modern barn are 140 head of blooded Holsteins, good animals, backed by blood lines and production records. And in addition he has 130 blooded Poland-China hogs that would be hard to beat either as breeding or market stock.

His young stock is exceptionally good. The calves are in a well equipped "nursery" and kept up by feeding and care. The owner does record testing work and 12 of his cows finishing the test. The herd was inspected and 20 pounds of fat in seven days. There is nothing spectacular about the cows in the Holland farm herd but they are good wood producers and produce enough to make a profit on milk. In addition Mulks has a market for his stock for breeding animals. They are under federal supervision on the "T. B." testing.

Don't Run Out. "They all said I was crazy when I borrowed enough money to buy that $10,000 bull. Maybe I was but I have made money. I was ready to get off a rented farm in a place of my own and good livestock accomplished that end for me.

The senior herd sire on the Holland farm now King Korydake Pontiac Lass, a two year old. The sire has shown his good qualities in the young stock on the farm. The average production from the milk cows is 26 cans a day and the calves are good and 22 yearlings in the herd.

White Mulks took a long chance in starting in better livestock. A chance that anyone would not advocate for farmers. He believed in high paying livestock. His results from being on a rented farm in 1913 to owning one of the largest farms in Rock county, that he succeeded.

Hope to Double Bureau Membership

Charles E. Gurneill, director of organization of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, held at the Agricultural college, has announced that the subject of his address will be "The Farmer's Future." Gurneill has taken for his slogan "double the farm bureau membership during 1922." He has announced that every farm member in the United States resolve for 1922 that he will have faith in himself, his fellow farmer and his country. The American Farm Bureau Federation, he should urge every unorganized farmer in the United States to join him in that faith, believing that the only means to better the condition of the farmer, recognizing it as his duty to lend his support to that movement.

H. Miller Is Tester for Clinton Ass'n. Now

Howard Miller will be tester for the Clinton cow testing association, reorganized from the Rock County association. Mr. Miller is president and Floyd Keefe, secretary. The 25 members in this association are: John Knutson, Clarence Larson, L. A. Williams, C. J. G. Nelson, Otto Wobler, D. E. Krebs, C. A. Larson, J. C. Dresser, J. H. Green and son, Peter Otfeldt, John Wehler and son, State school for the Blind, Rock County, E. H. Kemp, R. W. Lamb and son, Fred Hadden, David Dean, Glen McArthur, Duoss brothers, W. J. Dougan and Floyd Keefe.

Shipping by Freight Milk from Near Avalon

Milk consigned to the Chicago milk marketing company from the Avalon district is now being shipped direct to Chicago by train. Previous to this arrangement the milk was sent by truck to Delavan and then shipped by railroad to Chicago. The shipping of the milk to Chicago is through the refusal of the Wisconsin Dairy company to accept milk from marketing company members.

Road School at the Capitol Opens Jan. 23

For the first time the railroads of Wisconsin offer special one and one-half rate fare to those who attend, from Wisconsin points, the 11th Annual Road School of the Wisconsin Highway Commission to be held in the Capitol at Madison, January 23 to 27th, inclusive. This is the largest road meeting in Wisconsin, and probably in the United States. Last year's attendance was 343 and more than one thousand are expected this year.

The Road School will open on Monday, January 23rd, with an address of welcome by John J. Blaine, Governor of Wisconsin, which will be responded to by Joe Caffery, of St. Croix County, President of the Highway Commissioners' Association. This will be followed by an address on "Good Roads and the Farmer" by K. H. Hatch, Director of the Agricultural Extension Service, University of Wisconsin. John G. D. Mack, State Chief Engineer, will talk about maintaining good roads. Physical Plant and A. R. Hurst, State Highway Engineer, will give a brief review of the 1921 work.

Tuesday will be devoted to the discussion of maintenance, including the subject of "The Physical Plant of the Road." The afternoon will be given to a discussion of the subject of "The Road and the Farmer." In the evening there will be illustrated lectures on bridge and highway construction and maintenance, together with a talk on "Wisconsin, the Beautiful," by Frank A. Cannon.

Wednesday will be devoted to a discussion of construction by H. E. Kuehling and others. In the evening there will be a debate on the respective merits of Gravel Roads vs. Concrete Roads.

On Thursday, administration problems will be discussed. In the afternoon the new federal aid law will be explained by E. O. Hathaway, Federal District Engineer, and A. R. Hurst will speak on the "State Road System." The annual Road School dinner will take place in the evening.

Friday will be County Highway Commissioners' day.

Footville

Footville—Miss Irene Mulchay, of the Rock County Teachers' association, Janesville, substituted a part school, Janesville, for her sister, Miss Gladys, who is teaching near Oxfordville. The latter attended the funeral of Mrs. John Donnelly—Mr. and Mrs. John Butler welcomed a baby girl, their first-born, into their home Friday—George Pankhurst, Oxfordville, and Mrs. Frank Smiley, Janesville, spent Monday at the Harry Walton home—James Bent and daughter, Miss Betty and Mr. and Mrs. Deiblich motored here from Twin Grove Saturday returning Monday. They came to make a profit on milk. In addition Mulks has a market for his stock for breeding animals. They are under federal supervision on the "T. B." testing.

TELLS PUPILS HOW TO FIGHT DISEASE

Prevention Methods Outlined by Dr. Gudek of State Board of Health.

Prevention and eradication of communicable diseases, especially diphtheria, was the topic of a talk by Dr. V. A. Gudek, of the Wisconsin state board of health, before high school pupils here Tuesday. Using plain English, Dr. Gudek explained the complicated terms of his profession. Dr. Gudek made clear to the pupils, the origin of the diseases, told of the cure for several and how to prevent others.

He spoke particularly on the prevention of diphtheria and of the remarkable progress, being made in this disease. Out of more than 200 deaths in Wisconsin the past year and a half from diphtheria, more than half were unnecessary. Dr. Gudek said, and could have been prevented by simple precautions.

His spoke of the carrier as the greatest menace to the eradication of this disease.

"To eradicate this terrible disease, we must go to work and find the carriers," he said. "Too many parents know too much about throat trouble. If they know less and were less sure of their diagnosis made in cases of throat trouble, there would be fewer cases of the disease."

He said the age at which a person is most susceptible to diphtheria is between 6 months and 14 years.

He warned the children to obey doctor's orders in case of the disease. A large number of children have died because they got out of bed and walked around before their hearts were strong enough, he said.

He outlined communicable diseases caused by germs coming from vegetables or animals.

"Common among these is pediculosis," he said.

Whitewater

Whitewater—Nearly the entire student body and many of the townspeople attended the debate Thursday night when the following team was selected to represent the school in the Inter-Normal debates for 1922.

Norman Comendone, Menominee, Mich. H. S.—1921, who represented that school in oratorical contests; Robert Gross, Waukesha, Wis., a commercial course, Clove Kivlin, a graduate of Brooklyn H. S., 1921, where she was prominent in public speaking and declamatory work; Kenneth Kyle, Whitewater, Normal High, 1920, won third place in the oratorical contest 1920, was on the Normal Debating Team that defeated Milwaukee last year; Phyllis Smith, West Allis H. S. 1920, has had extensive declamatory and public speaking experience; Stewart Tice, Richmond, Mich. H. S. 1920, an ex-serviceman who has done splendid work in public speaking at Normal and ranked high in the oratorical contest last year; Hazel Walker, Mauston H. S. 1920, a very successful debater there for three years, was on the Normal team that defeated Milwaukee last year; Edward Wegner, Milwaukee, an excellent public speaking work.

Whitewater won both contests in 1920 and with this wealth of material and the high enthusiasm shown by the members of the debating team Thursday evening we have every reason to believe that the record will be maintained.

Mrs. Ida Decker is visiting her mother at Deaver Bain this week. Those from out of town who attended the funeral of George Chaffee, Monday were: Clifford Chaffee, Toronto, Canada; Harry Chaffee, Clinton, Iowa; and Mrs. Hubert Chaffee, Rockford; Enos Richmond, Oshkosh; Joel Richmond from Minneapolis.

SYNOPSIS
Thrown out of his father's house because of failure, George Morton becomes a horse wrangler for Old Planter, rich and arrogant. The youth falls in love with Sylvia Planter, and when she falls from her horse, he kisses her. This brings on a fight. Morton leaves, goes to Princeton and determines to get a college education. He makes the football team, studies with intense devotion and the aid of a tutor, George Bailey.

"When it was all over Squibs sat one night silently for a long time. At last he stirred, lighted his pipe, and spoke. "I ought to say to you, George, that I was as satisfied with you in defeat as I was in victory."

"I outplayed Planter, anyway, didn't I?"
"Bailly studied him. "Did that mean more to you than having Princeton beaten?"

"Yes," Bailly admitted. "I know, you are right to find it a victory somewhere in a defeat."

"But you really think it is?"
George said. "I wish," Bailly answered, "I could graft on your brain some of Allen's mental processes, even his dissatisfactions."

"You can't," George said bluntly. "I'm tired of Allen's snarl talk. Most people like him could be bought with the right conditions for attack."

"Bailly arose and limped up and down. When he spoke his voice vibrated with an unaccustomed passion: "I don't know. I don't think so. But I wish you to realize the greatest worship of the fat old god success is as wicked as any other idolatry. I want you to understand that Allen and his kind may be sincere and right, but vision unclouded by the bull's eye may see the target all awry. My fear goes back to your first days here. You are still ashamed of service."

"I've served," George said, hotly. "Was it real service?" Bailly asked gently, "or a shot at the bull's-eye?"
Allen involuntarily George clapped his fingers to his head. "I've served when nothing but the thought of service brought me through."

Mrs. Bailey hurried in. She put one hand on George's shoulder. With the other she nudged his head. "What's he doing to you boy?"
George grinned at Bailly. "Don't you see, sir, if I were as bad as you think she couldn't do that?"
Bailly nodded thoughtfully. "If you're serious, you say you must be merely hiding the gold."

XXX
To himself at times George acknowledged his badness. But he sometimes sympathized with Allen's point of view, even while he heeled that angular man who often sat with him and Goodhue, talking about rights and wrongs and drunkenness as the quickest recreation for men who had no time for play. He longed to tell Allen in justification that he had walked out at the end of his chain, but he would never do that. He would later, staring at Sylvia's portrait, he would know hard again. Men, he would repeat, wanted to smash down obstacles only because they didn't have the strength to beat them over. He had the strength. But Bailly would intrude again. What about the congenitally unsound?

"I'm not unsound," he would say to himself. "I'm just a little bit off. And he suspected that it was because he didn't want to be good that he was afraid of seeing too much of Betty Alison and her kindness and the remembrance of tears in her eyes. It Squibs only knew how blessedly easy it would be to turn good, to let ambition and Sylvia slip into a remote and ugly memory. But he couldn't. He was too close to her portrait, forcing into his heart the thought of hatred and into her face the expression of it; for the more hatred there was between them, the more was the chance of his growing weak."

He longed for the approaching escape from his gravest temptation. When he was through college he would definitely in New York he would find

The race was about to start. Suddenly a spectacular broke bounds and dashed up to one of the straining steeds. "Is this horse Pink Peony?" he asked, breathlessly. "Yes," said the jockey, "blank-blank!" roared the jockey, "clear out!"

The intruder stretched up his arm and laid a silver coin on Pink Peony's sleek back. "There," he said, "my pal told me to put a dollar on this horse. Thanks so much. You'll see it doesn't fall off, won't you?"

"Well, then, why pay Rosen?"

There is a widely printed ad which informs us somewhat lugubrously that nine people out of every ten are going to get pyorrhea some day if they don't watch out. The worst part of the ad is that it's quite true. We all seem to take our teeth for granted until a toothache or a receding gum warns us that something has to be done immediately.

It's also probably true, as another widely printed ad declares, that a clean tooth never decays. This means that the tooth should be brushed once every day in such a manner as to take the gum from them and to get out every particle of food that hides between them. The tooth should be brushed up and down from the gum, not brushed and a generous amount of good tooth paste. The brush should run over the gum a trifle, so that the bristles will stimulate and make the gum healthy.

The English have a terrible habit of having their teeth pulled when the slightest trouble occurs. Many a doctor has seen the unsuspected troubles behind apparently healthy teeth cause all sorts of disorders. The American idea on the other hand is that no amount of work is too great if the tooth can be saved. The ideal method is to take care of the tooth so well that there will be very little trouble.

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best, most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and gentle), and is better than anything else you can use. "One or two teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft and healthy and the hair bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage."

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

Dinner Stories

Charles H. Sabin, the New York financier, was talking about Germany. "Germany," he said, "seems to think that, sanctions or no sanctions, she will get out of her obligations."

"Germany is like the naughty little girl."

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlyle H. Holcomb

AN EARLY MORNING SONG
"Tinker Bob, Tinker Bob, where do you go?"
"The hills and the valleys are covered. Away from the forests no paths do you know."
"Tinker Bob, Tinker Bob, where do you go?"
"The King of the Forest heard these words ringing in the early morning air just outside the palace. Silky had not heard them for he slept most soundly than Tinker. You see the King thought Silky ought to hear some singing before they started away last he might forget what it sounded like."

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I've been reading "The Outline of History" by Mr. Wells. Great! There's a book that will shoot holes in your horizon and put a dynamite into your imagination. If you'll let it. It begins with The Record of the Rocks, and it makes those rocks a veil through which a world heaves into being. Before you, Life passes, from its earliest record of green slime, through the terrifying procession of Brontosaurus, Tyrannosaurus and the flapping Pterodactyl down to the more terrifying event of a hairy, crook-legged Man.

All life began in the water. All life still retains its hold on the water. We're all second cousins to the pollywog and squid. When those remote, wiggly grand-dads of ours left their primordial slime, they perished because they lacked their essential watery element. "Drying up," says Wells, "was the fatal thing for life in those days."

Time haven't changed very much. We've done away with our fins and tails, but spiritually we require much the same conditions. Drying up is also the fatal thing for life in these days. Your mind will wither up if you deprive it of the needful moist element. Your mind and character will more surely wither up if you deprive them of the saving dousing in the great ocean of common human experience. We need the muddiness of ordinary foolish and trying contacts, just as the first trilobites needed the ooze of the Paleozoic age. We need the storms that sweep over the sea of life to toughen us and give us backbone, the saltiness of the general lot to give us humor and philosophy, the dealing with other atoms to give us tolerance, the interdependence to give us humility.

Face things cannot be found on lonely mountain tops, along the trails of selfishness and snobishness. It is against the great plan. If we do that plan we pass and perish, as the creature I want up to him and when I got there he was gone, for there wasn't such a thing. But the creatures of the forest are not that way. They cannot see things unless they really exist.

"Listen!" cried Silky, "that singing sounds closer than it did."

"Open the door, Silky, and let them come in. For this will be the last time for us to see them all together."

Silky opened the door and who do you suppose had come to the King's palace? Well, we will see Thursday. Thursday—Jack thinks it safer under the bed.

Silky listened and heard it repeated.

"No, he has no imagination," said Silky. "He isn't like me. I can see creatures that never did live in all the world. I can look into the dark and see strange things that never seem to appear in the daylight."

"Once upon a time I could do the same thing," said Tinker Bob. "I used to be afraid in the dark. I thought there were a dozen creatures about me all the time. Then when I met Old Man Experience he told me that there were no creatures only those you could really see and feel and I tried it out. When I thought I saw

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of fourteen. I have a sister much older than myself. It seems as if we cannot get along together. I have no mother and if I did things would not go as they do.

Often I have been tempted to run away, but did not, as I did not know where to go. I read your column every day and have been many times such as this and I have many things you said to do, but can not gain anything.

There are so many things said about me to other people that are Celery. Canned Cream Peas. Lemon Sponge Cake. Coffee or Tea.

RECIPES FOR A DAY.
Hot Bread—Four cups flour, three-fourths cup of sugar, one egg, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one cup of milk, one cup of English walnut meats, broken. Place in bread pan and let rise one-half hour. Bake three-quarters of an hour. You can use part bran, whole or cracked flour if preferred.

Velvet Cream—One quart milk, one-half box gelatin, three-quarters cup sugar, three eggs. Put the milk in a double boiler, add at once sugar and gelatin. When hot add beaten yolks of eggs and cook until gelatin has dissolved and it looks like thin custard (about ten minutes), then take from the stove and add at once the beaten whites of eggs. Flavor with a teaspoon of vanilla. It is better made the day before when used for lunch. Serve with cream.

To Cook a Leg of Lamb, parboil in water to which you add onions of medium size have been added. Put it into the oven to roast, placing the onions over and around it.

not true that it makes me feel like killing myself or running away. Also my school stops me from leaving home. I used to love to go to school, but the way things are at home makes me lose all interest in it.

Please tell me of a place to go and give me your best advice. It is hard for me to learn. Another girl wants to go with me if I run away. THANK YOU.

Your letter makes me heart sick because it brings to my mind again the many many children who are misunderstood and unloved and who are not blessed with any show of affection at home.

It is quite impossible to give you comfort, because I know to run away you would only make your life harder and after a few days you would probably return home, only to find the attitude toward you harder than ever.

My only advice is to show a big, brave soul. Look upon your suffering as a problem God has given you to work out. Try to close your eyes to the unpleasant and look for joy and sympathy in the beautiful things around you, the blue sky, the sweetness of certain people you meet, and the happy chirping of birds, even in the coldest unpleasant weather. You must learn to be a little philosopher and realize that at present you can see only the dark side of your cloud, but if you study and work hard you will be ready for something better when you are old enough to leave home and make your way elsewhere.

love, little girl, and look for it in other people. The task is hard, but it has been accomplished by others. By no means give up your school work. The more you know, the easier it will be for you later.

Dear Mrs. Thompson, I have been married three years and my husband and I have had trouble all the time. He wants to chase around and have a good time and he wants me to stay at home. Last night some younger people wanted me to go skating to chaperon them, as he would not let me go.

I have one child and so would accept small wages at first if I could get a permanent place. I graduated from high school and can cook and sew. I wonder if you could help me any?

YOURS TRULY,
I would advise you to advertise for a position, giving a newspaper box number in place of your name and address. You can get your answers from the newspaper office without your husband knowing anything about it.

With your ability and education, it seems to me you ought to secure a good position. I admire you for seeking work which will enable you to keep your child with you.

DENY McCUMBER IN CAHOOTS WITH NP

Battle Between Dakota Senator and Nelson Looms on Horizon.

Fargo, N. D.—Charges that the nonpartisan league and Senator Porter J. McCumber, who has succeeded Senator Penrose as chairman of the senate finance committee, have a political agreement, whereby the league is to support McCumber for re-election, both in the primaries next June and in the November general election, are declared unfounded, in a statement issued by league headquarters here.

The charges are made in connection with McCumber's recommendation of Andrew Miller for the new federal judgeship of North Dakota. Miller's nomination already has been sent to the senate by President Harding and it is now in the hands of the judiciary committee, of which Senator Knute Nelson, Minnesota, is chairman.

The nomination itself apparently is insignificant, but is entangled with many matters of national importance. It is more than likely to involve the United States senate in a tremendous row, because Senator Nelson is reported to be opposed to it, and will fight to the bitter end, it is said, to prevent McCumber, now in the shoes formerly worn by the Philadelphia statesman, in a position to make things interesting for Nelson, "the grand old man of Minnesota."

Elimination for One

The fight will mean at least the elimination from national politics of either McCumber or Nelson.

McCumber, who means his political career in North Dakota, is on the way to winning, if he loses, it means that Reed Smoot, Utah will be chairman of the senate finance committee, providing the seniority rule still holds, in which event Senator La Follette of Wisconsin will move one step nearer the finance committee chairmanship, a step which is not popular among old guard leaders, since La Follette, besides being an insurgent for years, is now allied with the nonpartisan league in his own state.

This nonpartisan league is the big enemy of all northwest politics. It is the suspicion that McCumber and the league may have an agreement in North Dakota—the federal judgeship appointment being the first apparent symptom of it—that has aroused the antagonism of Nelson, Minnesota, who can be counted upon to treat disdainfully, if strategically, any appointments recommended by McCumber; for McCumber, in the last North Dakota recall election not only refused to ask for the defeat of the league candidates, but he went further and demanded that the league program be retained.

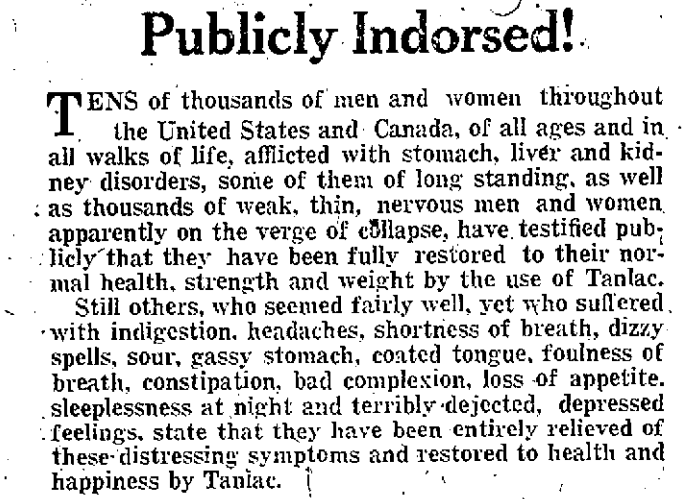

Presidential Aspirant

Nelson saw red then. His own political protegee, Gov. J. A. P. Preus, of Minnesota, who entered politics shortly after graduation from college as Nelson's private secretary, stumped North Dakota against the league candidates and program. Nelson is credited with a desire to make Preus presidential timber, before he dies and this is no idle dream, for since Penrose's death the agricultural belt has gained control of the senate and there is a great possibility that three years from now or seven at the most the Republican party will have to fight the Midwest for a presidential candidate.

What more fitting, therefore, than that Nelson, if he is alive, or other stewards, if he isn't, should be able to put in a good record for the league? Here the man who stopped the nonpartisan league advance.

If Nelson can beat McCumber on the Miller appointment it means the defeat of the league. Nelson, for Jake Preus, now only 35 years, old and already well known in the northwest as a wallflower of "radicals."

League headquarters here emphatically denies any agreement with Senator McCumber, but it is considered certain that league sentiments will switch the vote to McCumber if Nelson, in committee, attempts to kill the Miller nomination.

First Call Goes OUT FOR EUROPE TO PAY WAR DEBT

icy of passive silence to active interest in the payment of the European debt. Great Britain has been the first to take the initiative, but she does not expect cancellation but merely wants fair terms on the fixing of the dates of payment for principal and interest. France, on the other hand, has let it be known that she considers the war debt as "a political debt" and her statesmen here have referred to it as in the same category as the other "debts" received by France during the war.

The United States government has not yet formally called upon the European governments for payment of the debt, but all the international public so that if there are any errors in the data they may be corrected at once. A good deal of controversy has arisen as to the size of the European armies. The Senate resolution will bring out the American government's information as to what is being spent in Europe for military purposes.

If it had not been for the military policy pursued by France at the Washington conference regarding army and navy, with the demand later for the right to build a large navy, the chances are little would have been said about the European debt in the Senate. But many senators now feel that if France had the money for armaments, she has it to pay the United States at least the interest, France claims her budget cannot be balanced until the reparations question is settled and payments from Germany are regularized. America is being drawn involuntarily into the discussion alongside of the League of Nations in an effort to obtain an adjustment of the reparations question but the United States has already made it clear that the collection by the allies of their debt from Germany is one thing and their claims to the United States of the money lent during the war is quite another. Under no circumstances will the two be tied up together, it is thought it is by no means impossible for the American government to grant terms to the allies which will correspond more or less to the time when funds may be expected by them from Germany.

French in Protest

The demand for the publication of the government's data about European fiscal affairs has already aroused a storm of protest. France, where it had been expected that some private loans might be made by American banking firms from time to time. But with the American government's attitude toward France, present, the flotation of any more loans in the United States is extremely doubtful for the executive has the moral power of veto even over private loans. Many believe that the new Finance ministry will learn soon enough what havoc was wrought by the French delegation at the arms conference but the first public evidence of this is the McCumber resolution which, passed by overwhelming vote and which, while without White House inspiration, bears nevertheless no objection from the chief executive at this time.

Pickle Industry Growing

Two pickle tanks are at Lyons, waiting for their load to be shipped to the Volger Schillo Co., of Chicago. Wholesale growing has only had its start this year, but now there is some probability that the practice will continue. About an acre is all one farm can take care of, for they require constant care, an acre furnishing constant crop for two months. Large pickles do not sell well so it is necessary to pick them in the earlier stages of growth.

NOT TROUBLED WITH COLD NOW, SHE DECLARES

Trouton Also Ended Indigestion and Built Up System, Says Mrs. Kleinsmith.

"It's a wonder-working medicine," is the opinion of Mrs. M. Kleinsmith, 311 DeWitt street, Clinton, Ia., regarding Trouton, the famous tonic which hundreds in Janesville and vicinity are now using.

"Besides having to suffer from severe indigestion it seemed that I had to get out of my system everything I had eaten," she said. "I'm feeling better in every way, since taking Trouton. My indigestion has all been relieved. I never suffer the bloating or the heavy feeling in the stomach any more. I haven't been troubled with a cold at all lately either. Judging from my experience with this medicine, I know you can bank on getting results through Trouton. If you take it according to directions."

And Mrs. Kleinsmith might have truthfully added that "no matter how many medicines may have failed to relieve your stomach, liver, kidney or cold troubles, there is no need to give up hope, before trying Trouton," because in thousands of cases this famous re-constructive tonic has ended suffering after many other remedies failed. Trouton is sold and highly recommended in Janesville at the PEOPLE'S DRUG STORE and in surrounding towns at all good druggists.

WONDERFUL HEALTH DISCOVERY

Medicine, a Thing of the Past for Weak, Thin, Nervous, Run-down, Anemic, Conditions—Susto Concentrated Nutritive Tonic Food Works Better

Yes, it is true, and physicians admit that it is nutritious and dietetic treatment, not medicine, that people need, run down and anemic, and it will interest all our customers to know there has been tested and approved at one of America's greatest Medical Colleges, the Susto Concentrated Nutritive Tonic Food Tablet known as SUSTO.

It contains in concentrated form the essential strengthening, life-giving elements of yeast, rice, eggs and milk, together with beef, protein, iodine and iron, which are lacking in our daily food.

We are getting marvelous reports of how it is building flesh, health and strength in thin, nervous, run-down, and delicate children seem to jump into health by its use.

SUSTO is especially valuable to convalescents, to those who are losing weight, to young delicate children and to men, women and children in general who show signs of a run-down system.

We feel confident our customers will do well to try SUSTO. Give it a trial and we will return your money.

Why Women Get Despondent

Are not women naturally as light-hearted, happy and hopeful as men? Yes, certainly, but a woman's organization is essentially different from a man's—more delicate, more sensitive and more exacting. Women in delicate health are more dependent, more nervous, more irritable and more prone to nervousness, sleeplessness, backaches, dragging-down pains and melancholy. When a woman develops nervousness, sleeplessness, backaches, dragging-down pains and melancholy, she needs a tonic. This is the only tonic that contains no drugs and has been the standby of American womanhood for nearly fifty years.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitutes for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years in the city of New York, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and toxic liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" break a "dark brown" feeling, sick headache, or a "dull" feeling, constipation, you'll find quick and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 50c.

Help the Kidneys Fight That Cold

Colds and grip cause thousands of cases of kidney trouble. In any germ disease the system becomes filled with poisons which the kidneys must filter off. All too often this extra burden weakens the kidneys. Then you have constant backache, headache and dizziness; you lack ambition, feel tired and nervous and depressed. Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Home folks recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor:

Reuben Bickel, car inspector, 202 Race St., says: "My kidneys caused a lot of annoyance. The secretions passed too frequently with a burning sensation. My back ached so I could hardly turn in bed. When I took cold, I was always worse and my head would whirl with dizziness. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Sherer's Drug Store and after using them, I felt like a different man."

Blues Trim Monticello, 26-17--Cardinals Meet Harvard

BICK'S EAGLE EYE LEADS JANESVILLE TO EASY VICTORY

In a game in which they bewildered their opponents by varied basket shooting, Janesville's five scored their fifth consecutive victory of the season at the local gym Tuesday night when they vanquished Monticello high 26-17. With Guidry, veteran center, and McDermott, forward, out of the game, the victory of the Blues was remarkable. They decisively defeated a team which lost to the Blues at Monticello three weeks ago by two points, when Guidry and McDermott played.

During the opening of the first half, the teams fought to a tie, with the scoring of each team held down by the wonderful defensive play of their opponents. The Janesville team had instilled in them a wholesome respect for the playing ability of the Green county five and kept after them throughout the fray. The Monticello team did not play with the same aggressiveness which characterized their fight to defeat the Blues on their home floor three weeks ago.

Kenneth Bick Stars.
Kenneth Bick, the long, lanky basket shot of the Blues, in his best form has shown this season. He was the main cog in the scoring machine of the Blues and accounted for 15 of the 26 points, scoring seven field goals and one basket on a free throw. Bick's accurate shooting was a major factor in the Blues' victory. He was unopposed and a majority of his scores were from long range.

Daniel McCluskey, playing his first year as a member of the Blues, scored two baskets and a free throw. Guarded by Blum, Monticello star, chosen last year as all-tournament guard at Platteville, he had fewer opportunities to show his skill. McCluskey's scoring when he requires the knack of shooting the instant the ball gets in his hand. Hesitating before shooting, kept him from making many shots.

Seeman Works Well.
Due to his work at center, Seeman looms up as a likely candidate for that position after mid-year graduation. Seeman scored 10 points. His jump is good, and he may improve in basket shooting. He made two long shots. Tuesday night, Dougherty worked well at guard, Dougherty, the basket shot of the Green county team, to one basket. B. Babler, left forward for Monticello, and R. Richards, center, divided honors in the scoring for that team with three baskets each.

Monticello team showed they are accustomed to shooting at long range, but two of their baskets being made from near the basket. They scored the first score of the game with a basket by B. Babler from a third of the court. Bick shot two in quick succession a minute later and the local gradually increased their lead until the end, never being in danger after the opening. Monticello played too much in the back court, and failed many times to follow their long shots up to the basket.

Much Long Range Shooting.
Janesville showed the visitors they were their superiors in long range shooting. With the fight and team work demonstrated, the team in their fifth victory of the season is undefeated after mid-year the team may be strengthened by one or two men who may be eligible to play.

Ray Edler, formerly of Janesville, now of Chippewa Falls, refereed. Edler has never before refereed a game in which Janesville was a contestant and has not been in the local school since he played with Janesville high as a guard on the 1912 team when they won the state championship. In the balcony, watching the contest, was Edler, who was his running mate. While Edler allows a free game, he was quick on calling the jump balls.

Edler will play here Saturday. It has been several years since Edler has had the pleasure of defeating a basketball team representing Janesville high school on the local floor. Coach Reynold, who coached the Janesville football team by one point, will not be so fortunate in basketball.

Upsets Loom in Moose Pins

Winning all their games and continuing their lead for second place, Faith and Progress are pushing Hope hard for the lead in the Moose League. The chances are that the results after next week's rolling will show a decided change in the running.

Hope had to be satisfied with two games in this week's rolling. Faith was good in two games, but grabbed the first by a margin of 10. Although each had only two men on the drives, Progress was merciless with Mooseheart. Faith scored in the first position.

Purity walloped Aid for three games, one by the extremely slim margin of a single pin. The others were grabbed by 26 and 25 margins. By Goodin of Progress who showed the wood over for 205. Kneeland was second with 193.

Bowlers Will Leave for Meet 7:35 a.m., Feb. 2

Janesville's 250 bowlers, named by teams elsewhere on this page, will take Madison by storm Feb. 2 at 9:05 a.m. This decision was made at a meeting of the board of directors of the Janesville bowling association held at the Gazette office Tuesday night.

The bowlers leave here at 7:35 a.m. They will travel over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. This train was chosen as the only one arriving in the capital city in time to stage a rousing demonstration to show the state that Janesville is on the bowling map and at the same time permit the Pin Knights to get luncheon and start the five man events on scheduled time.

Best Arrangement
Idea of procuring a special train was given up by the board of directors when it was realized that a guarantee of 125 round trips fares was necessary and when it was learned that the C. M. & St. P. line will provide as many extra coaches as necessary without extra charge, adding them to the regular train. Arrangements will be made, however, for a special train leaving Madison upon the return trip at 12:30 a.m. February 3.

In order to provide banners and other publicity stunts, a fund of $100 must be raised. A committee composed of J. P. Newman and Sidney Bostwick was appointed to take care of this.

The tournament opens at Madison Jan. 26 and closes Feb. 2. It will be rolled on the 10 Platz alleys, an ideal location according to W. F. Fenske, secretary of the Wisconsin bowling association.

Green Bay Says
Green Bay does not think so highly of Janesville's chances of getting the tournament. Here is the latest of fusion from that city:

Thanks to the efforts of the Bowlers' committee, Green Bay came through with a plus entry for the Wisconsin state tournament at Madison. The original tournament was 10 five man squads but 60 a pins have been entered in the Badger pin fest. The Bay's water turnout will greatly assist in the 1923 event here despite the publicity campaign that has been carried on by the Janesville association.

The last dope from Milwaukee favors Green Bay, as thus: "Janesville and Green Bay, bidders for the 1923 meet, entered 50 and 61 teams, respectively. The highest entry ever made by Janesville heretofore was eight teams. Green Bay, traveling almost across the state to reach Madison, deserves a volume of praise for its hosting spirit."
